INTRODUCTION

Two draft courses of study together with some suggested learning activities are presented for initial tryout and experimentation. Schools may select and adapt Womens' Studies - Tomen in American History or HERStory - Changing Roles of American Women for use at the secondary level. The social studies curriculum encourages flexibility, experimentation, innovation, options and alternates. The teaching of concepts and the development of skills are major considerations.

These experimental curriculum materials may serve as resource for an option, an alternate, an elective, a mini course or as a supplement for existing courses. Feedback from experiences with these materials will help shape the future publication.

Women's Studies - Momen in American History was a staff project of the Bureau of Social Studies. HERStory - Changing Roles of A American Momen was prepared by Beth Millstein, Teacher of Social Studies, Adlai Stevenson High School. The galaxy of courses, options and teaching modules in the secondary schools can serve as a treasure-trone of curriculum resources for supervisors and teachers to meet the demands for meaningful materials.

The Bureau of Social Studies is prepared to assist supervisors and teachers in the sharing and distribution of curriculum resources. These should be sent to:

Dr. Leonard W. Ingraham, Director Bureau of Social Studies 131 Livingston Street Brooklyn, New York 11201

Women's Rights - 1607-1870 Women's Liberation 1870-1973 Equal Rights For Women

Interpretation of Poetry

The following poem was written by Lady Winchelsea in the 17th Century.

Debarred from all improvements of the mind,
And to be dull, expected and designed...
Alas! a man that attempts the pen,
Such a presumptuous creature is esteemed,
The fault can by no virture be redeemed.
Good breeding, fashion, dancing, dressing, plav,
Are the accomplishments we should desire;
To write, or read, or think, or to enquire,
Would cloud our beauty, and exhaust our time,
And interrupt the conquests of our prime,
Whilst the dull manage of a servile house
Is held by some our utmost art and use.

Atlantic Monthly Warch 1970 P.83

I don't think brains have any sex
Margaret Mangam, New York State Supreme Court Justice

Indeed it is difficult to imagine any creature more attractive than an American beauty between the ages of fifteen and eighteen. There is something in the bloom, delicacy and innocence of one of these young things that reminds you of the conceptions which poets and painters have taken of angels.

I ask no favor for my sex. All I ask of our brethern is that they take their feet off our necks.

THEME II WOMEN'S STRUGGLE FOR EQUALITY

Suggested Learning Activities for:

Inquiry - Discovery
Independent Study - Simulations - Research - Role Playing

Ask Students to:

Fring into class one or two cartoons which depict the women's movement or liberated women. Have committee prepare bulletin board with selected cartoons or prepare overhead transparencies.

Questions based on cartoons:

How does the cartoon communicate its point of view?

What is the message of the cartoon?

Is the cartoon fair?

Collect pictures of women who made outstanding contributions. Prepare brief essays or short biographical sketches. For discussion: Why should each be included among "Famous Americans".

Prepare a cartoon or collage either attacking women's liberation or taking the opposite position.

Analyze the coverage that women's liberation gets in the press.

Prepare a tape or radio script to express a concept about women, e.g. "a woman"s place is in the home; "Equal work, equal pay"; "Man's world, Woman's place."

Maintain a diary or journal in which the main focus will be feel ings, thoughts and events that pertain to sex roles - i.e. house-hold chores.

Collect and analyze advertisements which create a "feminine mystique". Have students explain how the advertisements exploit or insult women.

Look up reviews of books written by women.

Questions for inquiry and discussion:

Is there a difference in reviews by men and women? Are there extraneous comments? Give examples.

Should there be family planning?

Committee or Independent Research

Examine: The various religions and their different attitudes toward the role of women. The developing sex roles in young children e.g. girls-dolls; boys-chemistry sets.

Analyze women's magazines for differences in articles, advertisements, readership attitudes.
